NEW GENERAL STATUTES.

The Son has been furnished with the following information regarding the new General Statutes, for which we are indebted to Hon. J. C. B. Koonce of Sumterville, member of the Revision Committee. Mr. Koonce says:

"My attention has been called to the fact that the Governor's proclamation on the General Statutes of Florida bears date of Nov. 1st, which will make the new book effectual D. cember 1st. In view of the fact that the book has not yet been thoroughly distributed over the State, I think it might be of interest to the profession and those who may have occasion to use the book to give some information which will enable them to more readily familiarize themselves with the work.

"In the first place, the general plan of the book is the same as that of the Revised Statutes of '92, which it supersedes. For the convenience of the bar of the State in comparing the work and making reference, the Revision Commissioners adopted the plan of following each section of the new book with the section number of the same matter in the Revised Statutes. For example, following the figures 2250, which indicates that section of the General Statutes, appear in parentheses the figures (1773). This indicates that Section 1773 of the Revised Statutes of 1892 is brought forward in the General Statutes as Section 2250. The words and figures on the margin of the page opposite this section give the original act from which the section was compiled in the Revised Statutes of '92, towit, Sec. 2, of Ch. 3129, Acts of 1879. Every section which is taken from any act subsequent to the Revised Statutes of 1892 is so noted on the margin opposite the section; for example, Section 1742 was taken from Section 1 of Chapter 5124, acts of 193. Where no reference is given on margin of page or by figures in parentheses it indicates that it is a section added by the Revisors (adopted, of course, by the Legislature of 1905). For instance, Section 1421 is a section added in this way, and this section should be noted by the bar of the State as it is one requiring duplicate plead-

"Sometimes we changed the wording of a section, and in such cases the attention of the reader is called by the word 'Revised' in the margin. An example of this is Section 3633. Sometimes two or more acts are consolidated, and this is also noted in the margin, as, for example, Section 3387, being Section 2 of Chapter 4349, Acts of 1895, and Sec. 2 of Chapter 4190, Acts of 1893.

"Wherever a section of the Revised Statutes of '92 has been amended by a subsequent act of the Legislature it is so noted in margin; for example, Section 3410, this law was Section 2517 of Revised Statutes and it was amended by Sec. 1 of Chapter 4531, Acts 1897. Of course the same plan was followed where an act of the Legislature subsequent to the Revised Statutes was amended at a still later session of the faces, the world would wag along bet- Legislature, as, for example, Section 8752 is Section 5 of Chapter 5251, Acts of 1903, as amended by Chapter 5427, Acts of 1905.

All that Democrats have to do to ensure success is to get together on essential policies and leave any differences on minor matters to be settled by Congress and Legislatures as they arise and perfect their organization in the several States that will see that Democratic voters go to the polls and their votes are honestly counted.

A REPUBLICAN DILEMMA.

The Republicans nominated a negro judge in Chicago, and although many of the voters of that party out other negroes in the Republican net, tical help to him in his work. they should certainly abide by the result. As far as the Democrats are concerned they are rather pleased at their opponents' show of lack of consistency, but will not join in any effort to upset the votes of the majority of the people.
